

22 August 1968

Mr. Peer de Silva

Dear Peer:

Many thanks for your letter of 14 August. The technique you outlined may be too technically advanced [redacted] to exploit but it is certainly interesting and, to my mind, well worth looking into.

As I think you know, [redacted] is now the officer in principal charge of all R&D matters that related directly or potentially to our problems in Vietnam. He will be in [redacted] during the week of 26-31 August to supervise testing on one of the several irons we have currently in the fire. I have asked him to get to [redacted] make contact with you, and explore the matter discussed in your letter in somewhat greater detail. I think this is the most useful first step of any that we may eventually want to take.

As you surmise, there are mounting pressures of various kinds but so far we have managed to cope and life is not at all unpleasant. I hope that you are becoming re-acquainted with [redacted] and that things are shaking down to your entire satisfaction. Please give my best to your family.

Sincerely yours,

George A. Carver, Jr.
